

Me... Myself... and I

By: J.D. Tew

I grew up in a loving Christian home with a wonderful family and great family values. I attended church and acquired a solid foundation about God, the Bible, and Jesus Christ however; it was a 'head knowledge' only. I never did surrender my heart and life, nor did I have a 'personal' relationship with Jesus Christ.

At the age of 16 I turned away from God to find MY satisfaction and meaning in life and I served "Me-Myself and I". I dove into materialism and wants [a lust of the eyes], a desire for pleasure [a lust of the flesh], and a hunger for power, prestige, and the philosophy that it's all about me [the pride of life]. [1 John 2:15-17]

After 20 years of serving "Me, Myself and I"... Living for the world... and never really finding true peace and satisfaction ... God revealed to me through some very difficult 'life changing experiences' what was missing in my life. As a result of those situations I discovered I needed something the world could not offer... I needed Jesus Christ.

I knew where the answer was so I started attending Church again and finally surrendered my heart and life to Jesus on Feb.15th, 1998. I finally found the joy, satisfaction, and peace I had been searching for... That void and emptiness in my life was filled the only way it can be filled... with a personal relationship with Jesus Christ.

Dale Brooks – a Pastor/friend says that we all have 4 basic needs in life... those needs are Love, Acceptance, Significance and Security... and I believe Dale is right because that's what I was looking for and missing for most of my life. I looked for all of those things in the World and always came up short. You will never meet those basic needs in the World... You can only meet those needs through a personal relationship in Jesus Christ.
